

Xeris Announces Notice of Allowance from U.S. Patent and Trademark Office for XP-8121 Patent Application

December 1, 2025

CHICAGO--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Dec. 1, 2025-- Xeris Biopharma Holdings, Inc. (Nasdaq: XERS), a fast-growing biopharmaceutical company committed to improving patient lives by developing and commercializing innovative products across a range of therapies, today announced that the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) has issued a Notice of Allowance for its subsidiary Xeris Pharmaceuticals Inc.'s U.S. patent application covering XP-8121, one of its novel product candidates. The Notice of Allowance indicates that the USPTO has determined the application meets the requirements for patentability and is expected to issue as a U.S. patent following standard administrative steps. The allowed claims in this application are specific to the XP-8121 formulation. In parallel, Xeris continues to pursue additional layers of U.S. and international IP protection in the levothyroxine (LT4) technology space.

"We believe XP-8121 has tremendous potential to solve an unmet medical need for hypothyroidism, and this patent represents a key milestone in strengthening our intellectual property protection around this important pipeline program," said John Shannon, Chief Executive Officer. "It further demonstrates the ability of our XeriSol® platform to enable the development of difficult-to-formulate drugs into subcutaneous injections."

About XP-8121

XP-8121 is an investigational, ready-to-use liquid formulation of levothyroxine sodium designed for once-weekly subcutaneous injection using Xeris' proprietary XeriSol® technology. By avoiding the gastrointestinal tract, XP-8121 may address the well-documented limitations of oral levothyroxine, including variable absorption, drug and food interactions, and inconsistent therapeutic effect.
